Role purpose

The role of the Deputy Harbourmaster is to assist the Regional Harbourmaster with maritime (including inland waterways) and harbour responsibilities. This will include work to develop, implement and review procedures and practices such as safety and risk management systems, as well as enable maritime safety in collaboration with the local, regional, and national authorities, boating NGO's, representative bodies, user groups and the public to enhance the safety of maritime activities throughout the regions waterways.

The Deputy Harbourmaster will give effect to all relevant legislation under the Maritime Transport Act (1994), Local Government Act, Biosecurity Act, Maritime Rules, Bylaws and Council's objectives, including responding to maritime incidents as necessary.

Emphasis is on:

- Supporting the Regional Harbourmaster in ensuring the safe navigation of all coastal waters, lakes and navigable waterways of the Southland region, through the provision of public education, community engagement and the implementation and maintenance of sound safety and risk management systems.

Note:

- 1) This position may require some work to be completed outside Environment Southland's normal hours of work of 8:00 am to 5:00 pm Monday to Friday.
- 2) The position will require participation in a duty roster which may involve response outside the normal working day and at weekends. The Council provisions relating to alcohol, vehicle use, and being in the Invercargill locality to be able to respond, apply. The successful applicant may be required to reside within 10 km of the office to meet the requirements of on-call response
